BKC | Burger King | Profile | Summary

Burger King, BKC , is trading close to its 52 WK lows, on the other hand its arch rival the B ig Mac,
MCD

is trading at 52 WK high. These two companies compete in the same segment, try to eat each others lunch every day, saturating every available ad space in the World, promoting the same beef patties over and over again.

So, how come these two stocks on the polar opposite of the trading scale?

Well, if you take a closer look under the Bun, you will find the answer.

Not exactly, both have the same beef patties with loads of calories.

The true reason: BK is more or less, a 'pure' fast food play, on the other hand, the Big Mac , in addition to feeding this great nation of ours with abundant calories, is a REIT and Dividend Play.
