

Spinal Cord injuries could be treated

Written by OTcking Staff

Friday, 20 August 2010 09:33 - Last Updated Friday, 20 August 2010 09:38

StemCells | STEM | Profile | Summary

StemCells is a bio-pharmaceutical company based in California, it has 50 US Patents and about 200 International Patents.

The company is developing treatment for neuro-degenerative diseases that afflict infants and young children.

The company's preclinical data just published in a well known International journal PLoS ONE, Read full Research Article, demonstrated the ability to 'restore' lost motor functions due to the spinal cord injury.

This breakthrough is an exciting development that has huge implications for the company, this could lead to the treatment of victims of highway traffic accident and other accidents that result in spinal cord injury. The study was led by Dr. Anderson of Sue and Bill Gross Stem Cell Center at (UCI).

Spinal Cord injuries could be treated

Written by OTCKing Staff

Friday, 20 August 2010 09:33 - Last Updated Friday, 20 August 2010 09:38

Source: The Company , OxBridgeResearch , PennyStockMonster , OTCKing

Category: Stem Cell Research, Biotech, Bioethics, adult stem cell.

A20100820